Indiana Makes Ready For 13th Annual A.A.M.M. Convention At Indianapolis

CONVENTION

Convention time has rolled around again. It doesn't seem possible that we will be shaking hands, greeting and rubbing elbows with each other in a few days. Members from the West, South, East, and North will all meet on common ground, with our trials, tribulations, and troubles. Comparing our standards, our short comings, making us aware of our duties to mankind and our obligations to humanity.

We will select new officers, lay-out a new program for the coming year, weigh and measure our success and failure of the past year.

Will you be there? Have you sent in your reservation? Have you contacted the hotel for accommodations? It is later than you think. You will have to hurry. You will miss much if you don't attend. And I want you to know you will be missed if you can't be there.

Hotel Severin, Indianapolis, Indiana. Write them today.

A WORD OF THANKS

It is our sincere desire to extend a word of thanks to the many who have so generously contributed of their time, money and effort to the planning and financing of our great convention program.

Without your help this program could never become reality, but your contributions to this cause have assured its success. Even the hundreds who only placed $2.00 ads in the program book deserve our heart felt thanks. It has been impossible to acknowledge personally the many worthy suggestions and contributions so we have chosen this medium to express our thanks until we can grasp your hand at Indianapolis and tell you in a more personal way what your efforts have really meant to us.

Thanks also to those old faithfuls who have given us much needed assurance by sending in their $15.00 convention registration fees in advance.

A RESOLUTION

It shall be the duty of the National Secretary-Treasurer to prepare and mail out to every member a report of the National Convention forty-five days after the conclusion of the convention.

D. S. CARLSON,

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE:

We will call him Tom. Tom came to see me with a worried look on his face. I do not feel very good he said, my belly sounds like a rumbling waterfall. I said Tom what are you worried about? Well plenty, he said, but first can you help me with this rumbling belly. I said yes, at least temporarily, but it goes deeper than you think. Well he said, let's take care of the belly first.

Now Tom worked in a textile mill in our town, his first and only job, he was sure his turn was next to be laid off permanently, having no savings or other resources to fall back on, he naturally was concerned about his future, especially due to his age. Textile mills were not hiring men of his age anymore, and he knew no other trade, and he was strongly opposed to a change in vocation, and he had no confidence in his ability to do any other kind of work. I said Tom, if you cannot get the same kind of work and you do not think you can change your vocation where does that put you? Puts my back against the wall he said. Then I told him the story of Israel at the Red Sea, the mountains above them to the left and right, and Pharoah's army pursuing behind, and the Red Sea in front of them. It looked like a hopeless situation. They were told to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord. (Exodus 14: 13.) Well, Tom lost his job that week, in a few days he returned and posed this question. Can a man stand still and do nothing when he has no work? I said, "Tom, why not try it out for once in your life." He did just that. He came to me a few days later beaming all over. He said it was a wonderful experience to be in "whits end corner" and wait for the Lord to move in his behalf. Yes, Tom got a job, it was handed to him as if it were on a platter without solicitation on his part. Sure it was a change, he accepted it with some fear and trembling, he was to be a male nurse in a hospital wheeling men patients through long corridors and assisting them in various ways. This offered him the opportunity to encourage others in less fortunate circumstances than himself. He said, "I would never have thought to seek work of this kind." "Now I have better hours, clean work, fresh air, and an opportunity to do so much good for others." "And by the way," he said, "the rumbling in my belly is gone."

There is a moral to this true story. We are so prone to reject a change and fret over possibilities of what a change might bring forth; usually we think in terms of defeat and failure. This year we will be called upon to make momentous decisions, possibly the most important in the history of our organization. Will you be at the convention to help in these decisions? Will we find that a point of view in which we have been delighting clashes with a new principle or course, and we debate, certain things will begin to develop in us that will cause our belly to rumble. Our yesterdays present irreparable things to us; it is true we have lost opportunities which will never return, but we can transform this destructive anxiety into constructive thoughtfulness for the future. Happiness comes to us as we think of others. New horizons will come into view if we will stand still and see God's purpose worked out for our organization.

tend our meetings during the four days of August 7-8-9-10, 1958. Did you ever hear such talk about a Massage Convention before? We are so confident about that we have gone ahead and rented the Cadle Tabernacle, the only auditorium in Indianapolis with a seating capacity for 10,000. Besides this enormous auditorium we have engaged almost the entire facilities of the Severin Hotel just west of the Cadle, one of the largest and best convention hotels in Indiana for lectures, demonstration and banquets.

We have engaged the tops in entertainment, the best educators in our field and provided a public relations program for our profession, the like of which was never dreamed of before and all of this is yours for the unbelievably low cost of $15.00 registration fee and each registrant will receive a $5.00 banquet ticket in the deal. Is it possible? Come and see. We haven't begun to tell you all that awaits you here.

A man is well-balanced if he can get a lot of money without letting a lot of money get him.

—O—

DESIGN FOR LIVING

A cheerful spirit is the best stimulant. Someone has said, "Most of our ills are imaginary, therefore they who borrow trouble pay a high rate of interest."

Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived declared under inspiration, "a merry heart doeth good like a medicine." The joy of the Lord in the heart should radiate from the countenance. God does not want us to be gloomy. When Jesus was here in the flesh he said to a man sick with palsy, "Be of good cheer." When he came walking on the waves in the dark of the night he reassured his frightened and bewildered disciples and once again exclaimed, "Be of good cheer." Even at the last supper, a time of deepest solemnity, when everyone present was cast in gloom and sorrow by our Lord's predictions, he still admonished them in the same breath to take courage.

One day Jesus told the disciples that if you had faith likened unto a mustard seed, you could move mountains. The trouble with us today is that we cannot or do not recognize our mountains. If you are thinking in terms of failure or poverty then that is your mountain. Change your thoughts and acts to success. If you have ill health, sickness or disease, there is your mountain. Imagine the little mustard seed being planted, see it cultivated, watch it grow until it blooms. It will bear fruit. And there goes your mountain. You must think in positive terms to accomplish your goal in life. Even if it is dedicated to helping others. You must be a success and be able to help your self first. Because others will only see you as you are. When you develop your personality to the point that it shines like a beacon, it will attract those that need you. When people point you out and say I wish I had what he or she has that makes them so attractive, then people will seek you out wanting to know your secret. Remember "as a man thinketh in his heart so is he."

Charles W. Brooks, N. D.

Dear Charles:

O. K. my friend you win your argument. This may startle you, but I admit you are right. After reading your letter I was reminded of what I did when I first started out in my practice. I would look for pictures in magazines that would convey the positive approach to health rather than the negative. Then I would add a postscript like this, to the pictures and stick them up all around the place. They clicked. What a rut I have gotten into these years.

"It's great to feel fit"

"It's great to be alive"

"Why be half dead when you can be alive"

I recall one picture with a fellow showing a tremendous stride and a big smile, another riding a bucking steer, etc. I appreciate your challenge. You need never feel reluctant to differ with me as it is always refreshing to get another's view point even if we cannot agree on everything under discussion.

You say you will do what ever the members want in regard to the magazine. Do you think that is taking the positive approach? Why not do the same in that matter by proving your point as you did with me. I can see by your letter that you could have written pages on this matter as it is so close to your heart.

We honor the dead—Why not the living? is good. Pursue it further, you are on the right track.

You attempt to deal with religion as an example, there is no comparison, your point is not well taken. First there is a vast difference between religion and Christianity. Everyone has some kind of religion but few know about what real Christianity embraces. You cannot separate Hell from Christianity. The scriptures are full of warnings about Hell. Yes, many in the past ages have accepted Christ because they feared Hell.

The scriptures tell us to fear the wrath to come. I acknowledge that the fear of Hell does not always result in repentance, just fear alone does not bring repentance, it must result in genuine repentance in order to escape Hell. It says repent and believe. Not believe and repentance. Thousands of folks have been saved because of a hell fire sermon, and the work accomplished in their hearts have been genuine. Enough of this as I cannot pursue this further without getting into many more pages. But this is a subject I would like to take up with you further sometime with the Bible passages that deal with this subject.

Your next to the last paragraph is very good, this is what dealt with illustrated fruit and vegetables for the front page along with a beaming fact of young folks and old folks, with the statement of,

"Do you wish to stay young?"

"There is a way to feel good!"

Here are a few more, now that you got me started,

"The man with health possesses the greatest wealth."

"Look well, Feel well, Be well." (courtesy Lion Cross tea.)

"IT'S GREAT, to feel clean within."

There are hundreds more I suppose which could be worked out.

Your letter made me look over a number of ads on health and I was astounded how many had the negative approach. You never see a reducing ad or slenderizing ad with the negative approach. My son was preparing a ad for the

M-24/1405
01/15/62

Sunday paper and in looking it over I woke up. Next I checked a number of other ads in my file and I was again impressed with the positive approach to all the ads. We have been barking up the wrong tree too long. High time we woke up.

Sincerely,
D. S. C.

The books and finances were audited and read and passed by the members.

The A.A. and M.M. policy was read by Felix Banahan from the Rhode Island Chapter.

The slate was voted on and accepted as the new officers for the coming year.

The new officers were installed by President Ann White—they being:

Mr. Donald Seppelin of the Birtcher Corporation was introduced by Henry LaFleur. He gave a talk and demonstration of Ultra-Sonic followed by a very educational film on Physical Therapy.

After a brief recess Henry LaFleur introduced Adolph Meltzer, M.D. of Worcester, Massachusetts.

Dr. Meltzer, our main speaker, gave a talk and question and answer period on the "Routine Check for Cancer in the Doctor's Office." This was followed by the two latest films from the American Cancer Research. As usual, Dr. Meltzer's speech was very interesting and educational.

President Ann White then made the motion we accept Dr. Adolph Meltzer an Honorary Life Member. The group voted unanimously.

After a brief recess to allow the waiters to take over, we all sat down to enjoy a wonderful dinner of "Western Chuck Wagon." During the meal presents were presented by Virginia George and Ann White to the officers.

It being President Ann White's and Lucinda Levasseur's birthdays, Henry LaFleur gave the girls two birthday cakes with one candle. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to the two wonderful members.

Mr. Lussier presented Cecil and Virginia George, Directors of the "George School of Massage" in North Attleboro, Massachusetts a present in appreciation from the graduating students of their first class.

After dinner, door prizes were drawn and won by the members.

New members from the "George School of Massage" were voted on and accepted into the Chapter. They being Lillian LaBonte, Felix LaBonte, and Olga A. Mack.

Miss Theresa Bishop dropped in after dinner and was voted and accepted into the Chapter.

Gladys Howell from Roxbury, Massachusetts gave the closing prayer.

Cecil and Virginia George had a display of material and data from the "George School of Massage" which was very interesting.

Not forgetting Saturday night, May 17, 1958 a social hour was held in which Alice Smith, President of the Rhode Island Chapter was the only featured entertainer as her two partners — Rose Johanson and June Varis were unable to attend, Rose being sick and June baby sitting.—So, our female Wyatt Earp put the show on all by herself. Music and fun was enjoyed by all.

Sunday night the group adjourned to Henry LaFleur's offices in the Bancroft Hotel where demonstrations of massage were given. At 7 P.M. we all started on our weary way home. Having once more enjoyed our annual convention where we meet all our wonderful friends and have such a good time, but always remembering the knowledge we have gained and imparted, we take with us to help further ourselves in the profession we have chosen, namely, the alleviation of pain and the by "The Art of Healing Hands."

AVA LOOKS FINE

By Earl Wilson

Rome—It was a pretty dramatic moment. I sat with Ava Gardner who for the first time since the hoof of a horse or a bull hit her face last October.

She was terrified of the result, nervous that she would not look good, that the injury to her right cheek would show.

We sat side by side in a little projection room looking at the first day's rushes from her new film, "The Naked Maja."

Suddenly as I was gushing to Ava that she looked prettier than I ever saw her, she exclaimed, "Oh, he's wonderful! That man is magnificent."

"Who? Tony?" I thought she referred to Anthony Franciosa, her leading man, who plays the painter, Goya.

"The photographer, Pepe Rotturno," she said. It was his work, she maintained, that made her look good.

Actually, though, when looked at closeup, Ava appears only to have acquired a somewhat deeper dimple.

She told me that despite all the reports, she did not have facial surgery—only massage and heat treatment. I will tell more of this inside story in a little later column.

"Anyway," said Ava, as the compliments poured in from people, "I've made a liar out of some of those columnists who wrote that I was ruined for life."

A. HENRY LAFLEUR

The new president of the Massachusetts chapter, a french swede, a successful man employing several Physio-therapists, many important people from all over the world having been treated by Henry. Constant Bennet, Fifi Dorsey, or name any one of fame and they have been at Lafleurs. Veteran of world war II, former successful wrestler, had a busy massage school and clever with improvising equipment.

What ever Henry does it is well and so we are happy to have him as our leader, and may he get to Indiana to the National Convention as we want you to meet our Henry.

Ann B. White

INDIANA

Meeting was called to order at 11:25 A.M., president, George Stoller, presiding.

President Stoller announced the resignation of our Chaplain, Mary Felton Leets and his appointment of Mrs. Dorothy Olson of Indianapolis to act as Chaplain the rest of the year. He then asked her to give the invocation.

Another innovation in our procedure; we had a registration of members and guests as they entered instead of the usual roll call. We had 32 members and 8 guests present. The opening of this meeting was delayed a bit because it was necessary to have a meeting of the Board of Directors to take care of some important business including the review, approval and signing of seven applications for membership.

Your secretary read the minutes of the last meeting held at Marshalls Dinner House, Mar Jean Village, LaFayette, Ind., March 1958. Minutes were approved as read. Mr. Spangle as treasurer read the financial report bringing the record up to date. Report was accepted as read.

Chairman Barnes of the Nominating Committee reported the slate of candidates selected for our forthcoming election in July.

Chairman Wyss reported for the schools and colleges committee.

Mr. Spangle as chairman of the Legislative Committee reported for that committee.

Thomas D. Olson reported for his office of Executive Secretary.

Thomas D. Olson also reported as chairman of the Convention Planning Committee. Everything is progressing smoothly and we are looking forward to the biggest and best convention A.A.M.M. ever had.

Mr. Olson reported on a letter from our George D. Gammon of California that they have a group of 18 coming to the convention. We hope other states will follow the action of California and organize similar groups to come. We will have a good program for you, but you folks are the only ones that can make a convention a success.

President Stoller reported some correspondence he had with the National Institute of Massage and Physical Therapy relative to the requirements for their school to be recognized. He informed them that A.A.M.M. approved school must have a resident course of 600 hours or one year to be recognized. We hope they will qualify for recognition. We need more good schools and many more well qualified operators.

Dr. Olson gave an excellent report on his school, the opportunities it offers and we believe he offers one of the best courses available anywhere for those wishing to qualify for the professional practice of Massage. His graduates are uniformly a very competent and successful group. That is the best advertisement for the competent training the Olson School gives their students.

We wish to acknowledge here the beautiful floral decorations furnished for our meeting by Bessie E. Erfurth.

Mr. Olson suggested we should sponsor Rev. Moneymaker's Chapel hour from now on until our convention.

Mr. Rittenhouse proposed that we take up a collection to pay for the first week or two. The group was very generous contributing $115.00 to this cause. We added $35.00 making $150.00 which will keep us on the air until the last of June. This program is quite popular with the church minded folks, especially throughout central Indiana.

Bessie E. Erfurth, vice president, who has charge of arranging and planning of our meetings announced the next meeting will be held at the Ben Hur Motel on U.S. 24 one mile east of Logansport, Indiana, July 13, 1958.

We adjourned at 12:25 P.M.

We enjoyed the very tasty and bountiful dinner served by the Lake Hotel.

We reconvened for our Seminar at 1:30 P.M. with O. J. Tracy of Chicago who gave us a most informative lecture on the physiology of the large colon and its relation to our state of health. This was an illustrated lecture; very interesting and well received. The Seminar was officially concluded at 4:00 P.M., but so much interest was aroused by Mr. Tracy that he was bombarded with questions until after 4:30. Many expressed the fact that we had a most instructive Seminar. Thanks to Mr. O. J. Tracy.

Respectfully submitted,

SPINACH, it seems, has been sailing along under false pretenses. Dr. William Bolton, associate editor of Today's Health, says potatoes, squash, and carrots have more iron than spinach. However, he says spinach is a low calorie, filling food with a moderate amount of vitamin A.
